About this visa

This is a temporary visa. Nearly all bridging visas are applied for automatically as part of applying for a substantive visa. We will tell you if this happens. Check if you already hold a Bridging visa A (BVA) with VEVO \(/visas/already-have-a-visa/check-visa-details-and-conditions/check-conditions-online\).

A separate application for a BVA may be necessary where:

- your substantive visa application did not also constitute an application for a BVA
- you were granted a BVA or a Bridging visa B (BVB) but this has ceased and you meet the requirements for another BVA
- you are seeking a further BVA without work restrictions
- you have applied for judicial review.

You can't use a bridging visa while you wait for a citizenship application to be decided.

In effect

A BVA comes 'in to effect' when:

- it is granted (if your substantive visa has ceased since applying for the BVA or the BVA is more beneficial than your current bridging visa)
- your current substantive visa ceases
- another bridging visa that is more beneficial than your current bridging visa ceases.

Visa holders must adhere to the conditions imposed on their visa. Where you are granted a BVA, you will be notified about the conditions that apply.

If you hold a substantive visa when your BVA is granted, you must continue to comply with the conditions of the substantive visa. When your substantive visa ceases, the conditions of your BVA will apply.

The BVA does not support return travel to Australia.

Working in Australia

You might be allowed to work in Australia depending on the visa conditions that apply to your BVA. Your grant letter will tell you about these conditions. See if you have work restrictions in VEVO. \(/visas/already-have-a-visa/check-visa-details-and-conditions\)

If your BVA does not let you work, or has restrictions on working, you can apply for another BVA that lets you work. To be considered for a BVA that lets you work, you will usually have to demonstrate that you are in financial hardship.

We will assess your circumstances in relation to your claim that you need to work. If you do not meet the requirements for work, and you are still eligible for a BVA, we will grant you a new BVA with the same work prevention or restriction condition that was on your previous BVA.

You cannot be granted a new BVA that lets you work if your current BVA prevents or restricts you from working in Australia and either:

- your current BVA was granted to you because you have applied for judicial review of the decision made on your substantive visa application, or
- you have applied for a protection visa.

Remaining lawful during judicial review

If a merits review tribunal upholds our decision to refuse your substantive visa application and you apply for judicial review, you will need to apply for a bridging visa to maintain your lawful status during the judicial review proceedings. If you have applied for judicial review you can only apply for a bridging visa by webform.

With this visa you can

- stay lawfully in Australia until your substantive visa application is finally determined, or if granted in association with judicial proceedings, until those proceedings are complete.

A BVA will end immediately if the following situations occur:

- you leave Australia while your BVA is in effect
- you are granted the substantive visa you applied for
- you are granted another Bridging visa (such as a BVB) in relation to the same substantive visa application that this BVA is associated with
- we cancel either your BVA or the substantive visa that you held when you were granted the BVA.

How long you can stay

In all other situations one of the following outcomes will determine when your BVA ceases:

- your substantive visa application is refused
- your merits or judicial review is decided

- you withdraw your application for the substantive visa, merits review or judicial review
- a merit review tribunal tells you that it has no jurisdiction to consider your application for review.

Once you have been notified of an outcome you can see exactly how long you can stay in Australia in VEVO \(/visas/already-have-a-visa/check-visa-details-and-conditions/check-conditions-online\).

BVA granted on or after 19 November 2016

Your BVA will cease 35 calendar days after:

- our refusal decision or a decision by the Administrative Appeals Tribunal (AAT) in relation to your associated substantive visa application
- a determination that your substantive visa application or an application for review by the AAT is invalid
- you withdraw your substantive visa application or application for review by the AAT.

You BVA will cease 28 calendar days after:

- a judicial review body upholds the decision to refuse your substantive visa application
- you withdraw a related judicial review application.

BVA granted before 19 November 2016

Your BVA will cease 28 days after the date that one of the following happens:

- we notify you that your substantive visa application is not valid
- we notify you that your substantive visa application has been refused
- you withdraw your substantive visa application
- a merits review tribunal notifies you that it has upheld our decision to refuse your substantive visa application
- a merit review tribunal notifies you that it has no jurisdiction to consider your application for review
- you withdraw your application for merits or judicial review from a merits review tribunal or a judicial review body
- a judicial review body upholds the decision to refuse your substantive visa application.

Stay longer

You can't stay in Australia longer by extending this visa. You must apply for a new visa if you wish to stay longer.

Explore your visa options \(/visas/visa-about-to-expire/stay-longer\).

Include family

If you and your family have applied together for a substantive visa in Australia, you might have also applied together for a BVA. Check if family members already hold a BVA with VEVO \(/visas/already-have-a-visa/check-visa-details-and-conditions/check-conditions-online\).

If you apply separately for a BVA, you can include members of the family unit in your BVA application if they are included in your substantive visa application.

We will assess each member of the family unit's application and decide which bridging visa they can be granted.

To see if your BVA is in effect, see VEVO \(/visas/already-have-a-visa/check-visa-details-and-conditions\).

If you want to travel and return to Australia whilst your substantive visa application is being processed, you will need to have been granted a BVB before you leave.
